

Looking for a network without limits?
Just add CommScope.

Your network is critical to the success of your company. In fact, it's the foundation of your business. You can equip your network with the world's most affordable or highest-performing servers and switches, but without the right physical layer network infrastructure to support them, you simply can't take advantage of their capabilities. This is precisely why CommScope and TACKER design, build and implement SYSTIMAX® physical layer solutions to such high standards — to ensure that your company not only meets its technology needs but also capitalizes on its business opportunities.

You have unique challenges. Your network should never be one of them. To make your network — and your business — more successful, the answer is simple. Just add CommScope.

To learn more, please visit www.commscope.com or www.tackerit.com

